
Description:

Our aim is to keep you informed of all the latest news from Nature Publishing Group.

To receive this information regularly you must opt-in to our e-alert.

The NPG Communications E-alert covers everything from new technology on nature.com, to the latest publishing initiatives NPG has joined, to new posters available for you to print or order for your institution.

Messages are also sent about new publications and special offer prices. These messages are tailored based on your institution type, your current site license holdings and your region, so that you only receive information that is pertinent to you and your institution. New policy: messages are now limited to just one per week.

To opt-in, simply e-mail the NPG Communications team today! <mailto:s.kidd@nature.com> [1]

Samples of the latest NPG Communications E-alerts:

- Listen to the podcast for World Heart Day from Nature Clinical Practice and the World Heart Federation

- Receive NPG's annual open letter to customers, 2006

- Nature Publishing Group launches its first all Japanese language publication

- Read an interview with Peter Ashman, Publisher Clinical Medicine, talking about the NCP series
